West Sacramento passes school bond

$37.5 million in local and state money expected to be available for schools

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

"You can't call it anything but a landslide," said Clark Cameron, who had been in charge of raising the money to campaign for Measure R.

His efforts, and those of scores of other supporters, bore fruit yesterday. The school bond measure received 79.3 percent of the vote, well above the needed 66.7 percent approval rate. It became the first of three local school bond attempts this decade to succeed.

"I'm ecstatic," said schools superintendent Dr. Dennis Kelleher, joining Cameron and a throng of other Measure R supporters at an election party at the West Sacramento VFW Hall last night. "I think it's the beginning of a new era for children in West Sacramento, and the only reason it happened is because everybody worked together. People who used to feud got together to support this."

With 3,032 people casting their votes in favor of the $17.56 million bond measure and 790 voting against it, voters authorized the Washington Unified School District to tax them for 25 years at a rate of about $30 annually for every $70,000 in their assessed property value. The local monies will -- if all goes well for W.U.S.D. -- be pooled with an additional $20 million in matching state money to rehabilitate the city's campuses. The only campus not signed up for repairs is Southport Elementary School, which opened in 1998 and is the only district campus built since 1961.

Some of the bond money is also marked for new construction. River City High School is scheduled to receive an expanded auditorium and cafeteria, enabling it to better serve the growing student body size it was never intended to see.

Kelleher said that receipt of the state funds "is about as sure as the sun coming up in the morning," but added that the school board has agreed not to sell the school bonds unless the state money comes through.

Cameron, the "Support R Schools" finance manager, said that the ballot measure succeeded because the campaign committee and school board listened to the public before they designed the school bond.

"The reality is that the strategy is based on what the taxpayers wanted," he explained last evening. Cameron said that bond organizers learned three things when they polled citizens about a possible new school bond proposition.

"The first was to take advantage of the sites we already have. The second was to maximize the state match, essentially spending state money instead of our local money. And the third was to rehabilitate before we start talking about new schools."

Cameron said that Measure R does these things, and the citizens kept their part of the bargain.

"This was the community standing up for what it's been saying for years," he remarked. "They said, 'give me a good product, educate my child, and I'll support you.' They came through for the children."

School board Pat Flint was equally elated.

"I feel wonderful," she said. "This is going to create a much better learning environment."

The school board has already agreed to allow an "oversight committee" to watch how the bond money is spent, and Cameron said the campaign committee members expect to have a say in whom is appointed for this function.

"The object is to make sure that in fact the schools get what is promised to them," said Cameron. "If we don't deliver to the taxpayer what is promised to them, we'll never -- at least in my lifetime -- be able to go back to the citizens and tell them we need something again."

Board president Flint said she expects the school board to be receptive to the campaign volunteers' recommendations for the oversight committee.

"I think the committee has proved itself and pulled together the community," she said.

Cameron reports that the campaign for Measure R raised about $103,000, with the largest donation from a local businessman weighing in at $7,500. The bulk of the money came from business interests, he said. The largest donation was $7,500.

"A businessman has a unique interest in this. He's the one who benefits from having people who can read and add and subtract and make change and do all those things schools teach us to do."

Of the $103,0000, said Cameron, "we probably spent about $92,000. We intend to donate the rest to the schools, probably for computers in the classrooms now that they can be wired for them."

A major expense for the campaign was the use of a professional campaign consultant.

Also helping out were "a core" of about 30 volunteers, said Cameron, including several "like June Page who basically put in a full time job for several months."

Mike McGowan and Ron Morazzini co-chaired the campaign for Measure R. There was no active opposition to the ballot measure, but there was the knowledge that previous school bond attempts in West Sacramento failed to get close to the needed two-thirds approval.

West Sacramento saw a 28.4 percent voter turnout for Measure R, which was the only issue on the ballot locally yesterday.

The cities of Davis and Woodland also had school bond measures on their ballots yesterday, and both succeeded.

Probable Brown Act Violation:

School committee to meet again

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A school district advisory committee has met and agreed that W.U.S.D. should dispose of three unused school sites. But the group may need to meet again: the district apparently violated state law by failing to publicize the committee's first meeting.

"I think I dropped the ball on that one," said Assistant Superintendent Jim Sweeney. "I called our attorney yesterday for an opinion. She said that it doesn't pertain to the Brown Act, but that (details of the meeting) should have been posted."

In fact, the Brown Act -- which calls for open, publicized meetings in local government -- does indeed apply to the district's advisory committee. The law mandates that the public receive advance notice of the time and place of a meeting by such a committee so it can participate. The information must be posted.

The mistake joins a number of other violations reported in the News-Ledger in recent months, including one in which the school board apparently discussed the same land sale inappropriately in closed session.

"I suppose we'll have to meet again," said Sweeney. "I'll have to post it in the district office."

The whole process may be moot, however. Another set of state laws says that forming such an advisory committee is just one step in the path towards selling surplus school property, but the district has already effectively made up its mind to sell the sites in question.

Superintendent Dr. Dennis Kelleher earlier reported to the News-Ledger that all W.U.S.D. board members have told him they support the sale, and the district placed "for sale" signs at each location even before forming the advisory committee charged with tackling the issue. He said the properties were "absolutely" for sale at the time.

At its Oct. 19 meeting, the new advisory committee agreed unanimously to recommend that "the three unused school sites should be sold, or exchanged for other land, for the purpose of acquiring land for elementary school, junior high school, middle school or high school sites and/or for the construction of schools."

This recommendation is currently scheduled to be brought to the school board at the board's Nov. 18 meeting.

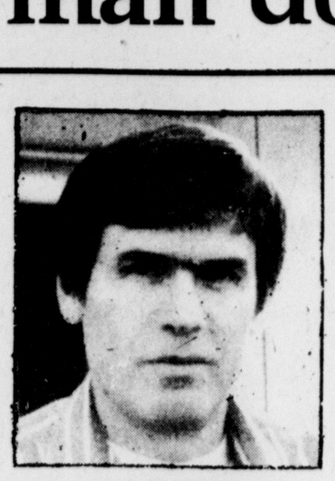
The advisory committee's meeting on Oct. 19 wasn't kept a secret. Anyone present when the board appointed the committee members would have been privy to the planned date. But the Brown Act requires that local government agencies give formal advance notice of their meetings (and meetings of their appointed committees), and notify the public of what will be on the agenda.

A press release from Sweeney invites members of the public to contact him at 375-7604, ext. 2222, with any inquiries about the real estate sale process. It also invites them to review the report which was given to committee members for use in making their advisory decision.

Appointees to the advisory committee are Tom Carpenter, described as a local business owner; Julie Dennis, a parent representative from Evergreen; Julie Hart-Martin, a parent representative from Westmore Oaks; Jim Thompson, a W.U.S.D. teacher; Gary Kana, a district employee; Steve Palmer, a city youth counselor; Kelly Porterfield, the district's director of maintenance, operations, transportation and planning; Dan Ramos, local real estate professional and developer; Aleksandr Semeryuk, a district employee; and Assistant Superintendent Sweeney.

What should a man do if his wife joins a cult?

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

When I was younger, approximately around the time I was entering puberty, I can distinctly remember having a very active dream life. Back then, I even had one of those reoccurring dreams, and most every night when I would close my tired eyes, I would soon find myself on this faraway deserted island, you know, the kind Gilligan was on, but instead of being stranded there with an overweight skipper, a brainy scientist and a miserly millionaire, my island had absolutely no males on it, except for me of course.

I wasn't alone, however. In fact, the place turned out to be crawling with gorgeous women (most of whom were much older than me) who seemed to have no use whatsoever for clothing of any kind. I can remember being quite shocked by all this at first, but after awhile, everyone's lack of attire actually ended up making perfect sense to me, the island being so tropical and everything.

Anyway, from about the age of 12 to 14, I had endless sleepy adventures on my little lost island, but as I got older, I seemed to start dreaming less and less. By the time I reached my 20s and 30s, I hardly ever dreamed at all, and even when I did, remembering what had actually happened in my dreams slipped quickly away as soon as I opened my eyes.

So, you can imagine my surprise (shock, actually) when a few nights ago, completely out of the blue, I had this lengthy and extremely vivid dream (most of it was in color), the subject of which still had me scratching my head long after I had crawled out of bed. Not knowing exactly what to make of it, I tried to recall some of the insights an old college professor of mine had uttered in a dream analysis class I took decades ago, but unfortunately, all his incessant talking about dreams always made me sleepy and I could never seem to stay awake during his lectures.

Having nowhere else to turn, I decided to ask my twenty-something daughter to help me interpret my dream.

"Let me get this straight," she said, obviously trying hard not to laugh, "you had a dream about Mom running off and joining a cult?"

"That's right," I said, not particularly thrilled that she wasn't taking my dream seriously.

"And just where exactly did she run off to?"

"Texas."

"Texas?"

"Yes, Texas!"

"Why Texas?"

"I don't know. Probably because the cult's headquarters was there. They did a lot of their ceremonial stuff in front of the Alamo."

When my daughter finished swallowing down her laughter, she asked me, "And just what kind of cult was this?"

"Well," I tried to explain, "it seemed to be made up almost entirely of women, and most of them seemed to be pretty angry women, too."

"No men at all?"

"Just a few dressed up like slaves that helped out at the ceremonies."

"And what happened during the ceremonies?"

"Well, the women -- with the help of the slaves -- destroyed things."

"What kind of things?"

"Oh, brand new washing machines, vacuum cleaners, dishes, exercise bikes, pots and pans, hair dryers, ironing boards, high heel shoes, all kinds of really useful stuff."

"I see. And did Mom leave a note or anything before she left to join the cult?"

"Nope. She just disappeared right off the face of the earth."

"So, how did you find her?"

"I went out and hired this agency that specializes in finding people who have joined cults and been brainwashed."

"And they brought her back home?"

"Well, not exactly. She was actually still in Texas when I woke up."

"Boy, that's a pretty scary dream, alright," said my suddenly sympathetic daughter. "You do realize, don't you, that it's trying to tell you something?"

"You know, now that you mention it, that's what my dream analysis teacher in college always used to say -- that all of our dreams are trying to tell us something we really need to know."

"And just what do you think your dream about Mom running off and joining a cult was trying to tell you, Dad?"

"I'm not really sure. Maybe that your mother is sick of living in West Sacramento and wants to move to Texas?"

Grants available for history projects

A Mini-Grant program is now being offered by the Yolo Co. Historical Society. The program is intended to provide small grants or loans to assist in projects that advance the public's understanding of local history (particularly Yolo County); preserve, protect or rehabilitate historically significant public properties or objects in Yolo Co.; support individuals or groups in attending meetings or workshops which promote the first two goals.

Grants will be made to public, not-for-profit agencies and organizations, and to individuals, for purposes not for personal grain.

Grants totalling $6,000 annually will be made, with a limit of $2,500 per project and a grant period of up to a hear. Grants are accepted between Sept. 1 and March 31.

River City varsity & j.v. victorious over Encina High

By Chuck Robinson

River City's varsity football team walked over Encina 45 to 28 on Friday.

River City, in less than one minute, scored on a 60-yard run by Malfred Shaw and Morton Geivett kicked the extra point, putting River City ahead by seven. With three minutes left in the first quarter, Robert Cervantes and T.J. Mumui tackled Encina back in the end zone for a two-point safety. With eight seconds left, Shaw scored on a one yard run to make it 15-0 River City.

In the second quarter, Encina scored on a five yard run, but the conversion failed. River City then scored next with a two yard run by Cervantes, and Zafar Niazi passed to Marshaun Tate to give the Raiders a 23-6 lead.

Encina then scored on an 18-yard pass, and passed for two extra points.

The Raiders then scored on an 11-yard pass from Niazi to Yasser Salman, to end the first half 29-14. In the third quarter, River City scored on a 24-yard field goal by Geivett and again on a five yard run by Shaw, and Geivett's kick was good. In the fourth quarter, Encina scored on a one yard run, and ran the conversion. They scored again on a four yard run, and the conversion failed.

River City's Yasser Salmon intercepted a pass, and returned it 20 yards for a touchdown, for the final score of the game.

Defense was led by Roy Butz, with ten tackles, six assists and a knocked down pass and quarterback sack; Mario Santos with six tackles, five assists, a pass interception and a sack; Eric King, six tackles, eight assists; Cervantes, five tackles, four assists and a knocked down pass and sack; Mohammad Salmon, six tackles, six assists; T.J. Mumui, four tackles, two assists, a knocked down pass and two sacks; Frankie Medina, six tackles, four assists and a knocked down pass; and Rakesh Sharma, six tackles and five assists.

On offense, Shaw carried 21 times for 197 yards and three touchdowns; Cervantes carried eight times for 47 yards and a touchdown; Niazi completed 7 of 12 passes for 86 yards, a touchdown and a conversion; Tate caught six passes for 75 yards and a conversion.

River City's record in league moved to 3-2 in league play and 4-4 overall.

The River City junior varsity team scored first against Encina near the end of the first quarter, with an 11-yard pass from Robert Washington to Eric Rodriguez. Stephen Marquez kicked the extra point, to give the Raiders a 7-0 lead.

In the third quarter, River City scored on a two yard run by Jeff Jones, and Marquez again kicked successfully. Encina scored next, on a two yard run by Jeff Jones, and Marquez kicked another extra point. Encina then scored on a 47-yard touchdown, and the conversion failed.

Final score was River City 14, Encina 6.

On offense, Francisco Rodriguez carried 11 times for 65 yards; Jones carried nine times for 63 yards; Washington completed four of seven passes for 87 yards and a touchdown.

Defense was led by Jones with ten tackles, seven assists; F. Rodriguez with seven tackles, five assists and a knocked down pass; Bryon Groesbeck, with five tackles, three assists and a fumble recovery; Washington with three tackles, two assists and a fumble recovery and pass interception; and E. Rodriguez with five tackles, four assists.

The J.V.'s record in league play is 3-2, and 3-5 overall.

Friday, River City will travel to Colfax. Junior varsity game is 5:30 and varsity is 7:30 p.m.

Sports Insider

By Richard Novoa

The Oakland Raiders (4-4) missed a good opportunity to gain ground on the AFC Division leaders this weekend by losing 16-9 to the Miami Dolphins. The defense played a great game but Rich Gannon showed the effects of his broken left wrist. The Dolphins pressured him all day long but Gannon just couldn't move the ball for the Raiders, completing only 7 of 28 pass attempts, for 130 yards. The Raiders completed only nine passes in the game and Tim Brown caught seven. The Raiders, who have the NFL's leading rushing team, met their match in the Dolphins, who own the league's best rushing defense. The Raiders filled the stadium with 61,556 but the fans had little to cheer about as they head into their bye week. Kansas City, who beat San Diego 34-0, is tied with the Seahawks for the division lead at 5-2, followed by San Diego at 4-3.

The 49ers (3-4) had to enjoy their bye week as they prepare to host the Pittsburgh Steelers at 3Com Park next Sunday. The 49ers, who are 3- point favorites against the Steel Curtain are still waiting for management and Steve Young to decide what they plan to do for the remainder of this season. Young still wants to play but the deck is stacked against the 38-year old quarterback. The experts want him to retire but Young is warrior, who will play until last breath. If the Niners win their next two games look for Young to return this season. The salary cap will prevent the 49ers and Young in retiring this season. Young is guaranteed $3.7 million this season but if he retires before June 2000 it will

News-Ledger Editorial:

Why it passed

There are three pretty good reasons why the city passed a school bond measure yesterday, after bond efforts earlier this decade all sputtered and failed.

For one thing, this bond measure was different. Instead of what many viewed as a "pie in the sky" request for more than $50 million to build a new high school (and to build it in Southport, irking many northerners!), this year's Measure R asked for less than a third of that amount. And Measure R promised to use that local taxpayers' money to leverage an even greater contribution to local campuses from the state.

This money was to be spent more humbly than the high school bond measures would have been spent. Measure R focused on repairs and upgrades. Very little new construction was planned. Measure R goal was to invest enough in local schools to help them make do, without asking for so much that it became onerous to local taxpayers. Making repairs and adding upgrades proved easier for West Sacramentans to live with than picking up the tab for a new high school.

A second reason for the passage of Measure R is that West Sacramento itself has changed a little bit and become more receptive to a bond proposal. The economy is better at the moment then it was in the early '90s, making a modest new tax more palatable. And, having defeated two previous bond measures, West Sacramentans were inclined to believe they owed their schools the kind of less expensive "consolation prize" represented by Measure R.

The third key to the bond's success was a savvy campaign.

Past efforts relied heavily on school board members' support and utilized all the old, reliable techniques: mass mailings, yard signs and newspaper ads, for starters. But this year's Measure R was championed by more of a "stealth campaign." Supporters raised and spent a lot of money, but at the same time kept the bond measure's visibility low.

How many yard signs did you see? How many newspaper ads?

Instead of creating a public debate about Measure R, and possibly energizing its opponents, this year's campaigners focused on identifying voters likely to support the measure, and then assuring that they would vote.

In this kind of a campaign, a low voter turnout -- assured by the placement of Measure R in a special election, with no other local issues on the ballot -- became an ally. As long as two-thirds of the voters who did participate in this year's election were those identified as allies by Measure R campaigners, a low turnout would be acceptable or even desirable. After all, no one was walking door to door or telephoning people in opposition to Measure R, and encouraging them to get out to vote yesterday. So a low turnout would help assure that actual voters were dominated by Measure R supporters.

The plan worked.

Letters to the Editor

Guarding the right to know

Your editorial in the October 20 edition rebutting school board member Ardeene Westvik on the subject of the board's chronic violations of the Brown Act was the best editorial I have read in 10 years of taking the News-Ledger.

Open meetings are the cornerstone of our system of government. Adherence to both the intent and the letter of the Brown Act must be a top priority for local boards. Any other approach implies a contempt for the people from whom the board's power derives.

Thanks for safeguarding the public's right to know!

RAYMOND CUSHING
Sacramento

Board member responds:

I am hesitant to respond to your editorial again, but I was shocked by your misinterpretations and inaccuracies and your "the sky is falling" approach so that I felt the need to respond again.

You again stated that the "agenda had only a reference to the expulsions." I am looking at the Sept. 23 agenda and the "employment of classified personnel" is listed as number 11 in closed session personnel actions. In addition there are seven other areas of personnel actions including "employment of certificated personnel." You may not approve of how they are listed but it is inaccurate to say they are not there.

You also state that I confuse my separate agenda report with the posted agenda provided for the public. Please! I know the difference. The only information that is included in the board's agenda report are the names and background of the persons to be employed, asking for leave, etc. The names of persons employed are made public at the end of the closed session as is appropriate due to privacy issues.

You state, "Mrs. Westvik believes instead that the words 'employment of classified personnel' are good enough to describe the hiring of a high school principal." Apparently, the editor either hasn't read my letter carefully or doesn't know the difference between classified and certificated personnel. I clearly stated that the position of high school principal was a certificated position. I did not suggest that simply including the hiring of a high school principal being included with certificated personnel employment would be ideal but the alternative may have been to let the high school go another 2-3 weeks without an official principal. I'm sure you know very well that there was no intent to deceive the public since you published the name of the principal the day before the board meeting.

You state, "then breaking the law is and will continue to be commonplace." This statement appears to be an effort to intentionally misinterpret my comments relating to "approval of the agenda." I suggested that since employment of personnel, requests for leave, etc., are an ongoing process, additional names will very likely be added to personnel to be employed. I did not suggest that additional business items could be added as you imply. In the five years I have been on the board, I do not know of even one business item that was added that was not on the agenda. However, "Approval of the Agenda" does allow for some changes of the agenda and does not require that the board should rubber stamp each agenda. This does not constitute breaking the law.

You also suggest that if a parent wishes to address the board about a student we should list it on the next agenda. Obviously, I can't comment on a particular closed session parent concern, but there are times when waiting for the next meeting would make the issue irrelevant. Also, speaking with a parent about their child would never be listed on any agenda since it is a personal private issue.

In reference to the hiring of an interim principal, I only wished to make the point that no one can officially be employed until the board has voted. A vote was taken to employ the vice-principal, Mr. Rodriques, as an interim which was publicly announced. Your information appears to be only partially correct.

I would also suggest that if you feel that I am "stubbornly out of touch with what the law requires of her," you should begin a recall immediately! I do not have a problem with your disagreeing with me but I do resent personal attacks. I truly think you need to get your facts straight about some school board meetings. It's interesting that some very important votes have taken place in the past few months that were never covered but the editor seems to be unaware and is most concerned about the wording of an agenda item.

I have never said that the Board or the presentation of the agenda have never been in error or that there couldn't be a more descriptive format but I feel you are somehow implying to the public that the board is intent on hiding some deep, dark secret. One wonders why the personnel section of the agenda has become such a cause for concern since, as I look back on previous agendas, it seems the same format has been used for at least five years. One wonders why it has suddenly become such a great concern. As one having spent a lifetime in education, my concerns have always been more about what is taking place in the classroom. But, as one that is concerned with legalities, I don't want to give the impression that I think an inappropriate agenda item is O.K., but I do think it needs to be put in its proper prospective. In other words, THE SKY IS NOT FALLING!

I hope you will not that the agenda now includes some additional information relating to personnel employment. You will now know before, as well as immediately after the meeting, that a janitor, a reading teacher, a Spanish teacher, etc., is to be employed rather than classified and certificated people will be employed. Hopefully this will meet with your approval and we can now allow for some time to comment on the need to pass a bond in order to improve the school facilities in the district. That is an item that would actually make a difference to the students of the district.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

The Sacramento River registered four feet three inches, United States gauge at the Southern Pacific bridge yesterday. This reading was taken at high tide but is the highest reading this year so far since early last spring.

The California Co-operation Crop Reporting Service sends out word dated October 27 on the subject of alfalfa seed which should be interesting to farmers intending to plant. It reads:

A survey of the alfalfa seed production for California in 1924 indicates about 50,000 bushels, equivalent to 1,500 tons of seed produced from 12,000 acres harvested.. This production is a little less than during a normal year but greater than last year both as to acreage harvested and yield per acre. In 1923, 37,000 bushels were produced from 11,000 acres.

Production of alfalfa seed in California is in some areas a regular cropping practice, while in others it is rather a catch crop and not followed each year. Alfalfa grown under semi-droughty conditions often sets more seed than where the moisture supply is abundant. For this reason it might have been expected that during the present year more than the usual amount of alfalfa seed would have been produced in California. This belief is borne out from the standpoint of production per acre as the estimated yield of 4.2 bushels is about 123 per cent of a normal yield per acre. However, the shortage of pasture feeds induced farmers to cut as much hay as possible. The area harvested this year is estimated to be 12,000 acres which is 110 per cent of the 1923 harvested acreage, but only about 80 per cent of the acreage normally harvested in the state.

It is reasonable, however, to expect that the normal acreage in seed producing localities may decline as other special field crops are found to be profitable and as dairying expands in alfalfa districts. Also, the acreage of alfalfa seed harvested from year to year is extremely variable due to the fact that the pollination of the alfalfa flower is so acutely influenced by climatic and moisture conditions. The grower always has the safe option of making a hay crop if the early seed set does not indicate a profitable seed yield.

In the northern mountain valleys of the state where hardy Chilean (common) alfalfa seed is grown extensively there was probably more than three times as much seed produced as in 1923. This was due mainly to the excessive grasshopper damage experienced in 1923 which was much less severe this season. Yields were also good in the southern counties where a part of the seed produced is of the Hairy Peruvian variety.

United States

The production of alfalfa seed for important producing states and the entire United States is estimated by the United States crop reporting board in bushels as follows: South Dakota, 4,000; Nebraska, 22,000; Kansas, 31,000; Oklahoma, 8,000; Colorado, 23,000; Idaho, 15,000; Montana, 6,000; Wyoming, 12,000; Utah, 70,000; New Mexico, 8,000; Arizona, 50,000; California, 50,000; and the entire United States, 299,000.

The total production for the United States is fully one-third greater than last year, due chiefly to increased acreage harvested. It is believed that thereis much less seed damaged by frost than last year.

A report from the California Co-operative Crop Reporting Service dated November 3 reads:

This report, just released by the California Co-operative Crop Reporting Service summarizes conditions of the past month as follows:

Weather conditions that prevailed during October were in general favorable to agriculture in California. The northern half of the state received sufficient rain to be of much value to pasture, live stock and early sown grains; while in the southern half of the state the rainfall was lighter and more scattered.

The seasonal precipitation to date in Northern California is above normal. Pasture grasses were started by early October rains which were followed by good growing weather. Additional rains during the latter part of the month have greatly improved pasture conditions in this section compared with a month ago. Live stock shows very little change in condition as yet. Rainfall is generally below normal in the southern half of the state.

Early sown grains in the Sacramento Valley have germinated and are growing nicely under favorable conditions. Much more plowing and seeding is now in progress. Throughout the southern half of the state a small percentage of the grain land has as yet been seeded.

Property owners along the river in the West Sacramento district are taking steps to protect the levee during the coming winter season from any high water that may come along. A great deal of brush is being cut and any large trees that have grown on the river slope of the levee are being topped to permit the cutting to fall on the outside of the levee, but yet being held to the root of the tree by a small section that is not sawed off entirely. Erosion by a swift current will be prevented in this way. Some of the farmers have already completed the work and some more are about to start it. The West Sacramento reclamation district is about to start work in the near future leveling and grading the levee along the river as far south as River View. During the summer season the old levee, or as it is known, the inside levee, is being used for a roadway which is all right for the summer season, but during the winter season the higher levee, that on the outside, would be much better for a roadway. Possibly an improved road may be provided on this levee with the election of a new supervisor.

Judge Barry is rejoicing over the fact that not a single case has been before his court for over a week, not even a drug fiend. Any serious cases, such as gambling charges or bootlegging charges, are being taken to Woodland for trial so that the county seat gets the coin from the malcontents of this section of the county. Judge Barry is rejoicing over the fact that the county authorities are lightening his load of heavy work in the administration of justice but it would seem that there is some sinister purpose underneath this transfer of cases from the local justice court to the justice court in Woodland.

COOLIDGE WINS IN YOLO COUNTY BY A SMALL MARGIN

Although Washington returned a substantial majority for La Follette last Tuesday in the presidential election, the vote registered throughout Yolo County gave Coolidge a good lead over both his opponents, Davis and La Follette.

The total returns showed Coolidge, 2473; La Follette, 2089; Davis, 803.

The ten precincts that favored La Follette were Cacheville, three precincts in Woodland, Knights Landing No. 2, Winters No. 1, Davis No. 1, Riverbank, North and South Washington.

Woodland No. 10 gave Coolidge his biggest majority, the vote in that Republican stronghold being 100 for the president and 32 for his opponent.

Riverbank, North Washington and South Washington piled up majorities for La Follette in this wise:

Riverbank, 129 to 75; North Washing, 135 to 49; and South Washington, 152 to 52.

Over at Cacheville La Follette polled 20 more votes than Coolidge, the count showing 97 to 77 in the senator's favor.

It was a neck and neck race at Knights Landing, with Coolidge scoring only 5 more votes than La Follette. The finals were 93 to 88.

As was to be expected, Davis failed to carry a single Yolo County precinct. North Winters, a hot-bed for good old-fashioned Democrats, remained true to the Davis banner and gave him his biggest precinct vote in the county. Forty-four ballots were counted for Davis.

WASINGTON SCHOOL HAS ATTENDANCE OF 278 PUPILS

Washington, Oct. 31.—A report has been filed with the board of trustees of the Washington school by Principal Charles Coupe showing that the average daily attendance of the school is 278 children. Of this number, thirty-seven are transported from West Sacramento and from Carly Acres.

No Rowdyism or Rough Work Was Noted in First Supervisor District Although Rivalry Was Very Keen

At the election last Tuesday public interest centered itself almost exclusively in the supervisorial contest between H. B. Buckingham and E. P. Smith.

As a matter of fact, Coolidge and Dawes and Davis and Bryan and La Follette and Wheeler were almost forgotten during the day because of the write-in campaign started by E. P. Smith in an effort to defeat H. B. Buckingham.

Buckingham had defeated two formidable opponents at the primary election August 26th, W. E. M. Beardslee and Eli Fourness. He deemed his fight won until Mr. Smith got into the race in a write-in campaign and it was then that public interest became centered in the contest.

In the short time during which Smith was making a campaign he surely made himself felt and many of his supporters even believed that he might win last Tuesday.

But, alas, the vote registered for Buckingham was so heavy that it was just about three to one in favor of him.

Buckingham was the general favorite in his home town, Washington, where most of the registered votes of the district are recorded. To prove this it might be said that the returns from the town of Washington in Smith's favor were only 33 as against Buckingham's 475.

In one precinct of the first supervisor district of Yolo County Smith succeeded in obtaining a majority, namely Clarksburg, where the count showed that Smith polled 110 against 99 for Buckingham.

The tabulated statement is as follows:

|---|---|
| North Washington— | |
| Buckingham | 226 |
| Smith | 12 |
| South Washington— | |

Buckingham majority, 486.

This shows a little over three to one in favor of Buckingham.

There seems no doubt that had Smith been in the race at the primary election he would have made a much better showing at the finals, but having failed to make a showing at the primary election, he was badly beaten at the finals.

During the election last Tuesday only one complaint was heard from any precinct, namely, one registered at Riverbank, where a lady was campaigning within 100 feet of the polls. When notified to get outside the limit, she made no objection, but continued to campaign for Mr. Smith.

The returns throughout the county on the presidential candidate were as follows:

AUTO CAMP OWNERS OF STATE TO MEET IN SACRAMENTO

Joe Pereira of Washington, and owner of the West Sacramento auto camp, has been making an endeavor during the past three weeks to bring the auto camp owners of the state together in an effort to improve conditions in all camps for fourists who desire to travel in that manner.

Pereira has the backing and support of the chamber of commerce of Sacramento and letters have been sent out by the chamber to all auto camp owners requesting that they meet on November 15th or some date near that time to consider matters.

The letter sent out by the chamber of commerce specifies as follows:

"The one crying need in California today is to elevate the standards of automobile camps. With half of the world on wheels, it behooves every community to look well to the comfort and convenience of the motor tourist. We in our work the past five years have followed the well known fundamental that visitors ultimately spell the development of every community. They come first to see, and while here have opportunity to investigate business advantages, enjoy favorable climate and familiarize themselves with our agricultural resources and natural resources to be capitalized upon.

"We want to aid yourself and Mr. Pereira in every way in helping you to promote this convention, and aid you with the preparation of a program that will be worth while.

"Sacramento, California's capital city, is the 'Convention City of the Golden West,' and we want to cordially invite you to hold your convention here. If you elect to bring your gathering here, it will be our privilege to place at your disposal suitable convention halls in the Chamber of Commerce building for the holding of your convention. We will not only be glad to furnish you with other convention facilities, but will aid you in the preparation of an interesting and educational program that will make the delegates attending the convention feel that the convention was of immense benefit to them.

"The writer has just finished up with the third annual resort conference. This conference calls together the 450 resort owners north of the Tehachapi, that they may gather together once a year to become better acquainted, attend educational departmentals that have to do with efficiency and economy measures and have opportunity for an interchange of ideas. I am enclosing a copy of the resort owners' conference program, believing that you may be interested in some of the subjects discussed.

"We should, indeed, be very glad to hear from you and trust that you will choose Sacramento as your gath-

MEDICAL IMPROVEMENT SOCIETY GIVES NOTICE

The Yolo County Society for Medical Improvement issued notice as follows:

"All patients will be charged regular office visits for smallpox and diphtheria prophylactic measures except in indigent cases, which are to be handled by the county health officer with the assistance of the local members of the society."

The above notice has been ordered published in all papers in Yolo and Colusa counties.

HOLLAND LAND PAYS FOR ITSELF QUICKLY

Clarksburg, Nov. 5.—Thirty-six tons of sugar beets to the acre averaged over a field of 50 acres is the record established this season by F. S. King on the Holland Land company subdivision west of here. At present prices of sugar this figures a return of $375 an acre. Of the many big sugar beet crops in the $1,000,000 harvest in the district, this represents the banner yield.

TOWNSITE WELL NOW SUNK TO MORE THAN 200 FEET IN DEPTH

The large well being driven in West Sacramento townsite has been sunk to a depth of more than 200 feet by Contractor Brand.

The final depth of this well will be between 700 and 800 feet and it is intended that the well will supply a plentiful and continuous supply of clear, portable and serviceable water for the community.

Two shifts of men are at work and several stratas have already been passed through, some giving a plentiful supply of water, but it being the intention to get the best available, the sinking will continue to the depth above mentioned.

we called WUSD offices and learned that a printing error resulted in the board having received an agenda that differed from the one distributed to the News-Ledger and other members of the public. This sheds some light on the mystery of why there are two different views of whether a reference was made to "employment of certificated personnel" on that agenda.

Sewage interceptor route

Interceptor, anyone?

For West Sacramento, there may be several definitions, and none of them involves sexuality:

1. Natomas has to have one in order to develop and build, and wants that finished by 2006.

2. Sacramento Regional Sewer Treatment wants to expand and has to upgrade, and therefore needs so money so that they can make it less expensive for developers and deflect some of the costs of their upgrades of substandard sewer lines, long neglected.

3. West Sacramento is studying how to influence the longstanding sewer users into hooking up to Sacramento without getting squished like a bug by the lack of controlling power offered.

Many factors in the regional sewer hook-up meetings the consultants discussed with prejudice or would not allow discussed. This series of meetings entitled "Interceptor" hook-up workshops, have been necessary to comply with public law. The constant reply to questions was, "the time-line for Natomas development would be interrupted," which is not an answer to a question about which would be the best for "us" in West Sacramento.

The lack of information or bias towards the regional is apparent. The basis for their analysis was substantiated by the need to develop Natomas and other areas. That factor seems to be the driving force in our need for this study.

Bill Lowell, Marna Miller and a few Southport residents have brought up the Sutterville Bridge, but the consultant assured Land Park residents that it had never been mentioned as part of the deal.

This hook-up analysis has insufficiently documented costs to "existing" sewer users vs. developers' new hook-up fee. The regional slant shows a bias towards hook-up to them rather than giving all the costs and impacts. An EIR would not be done, due to potentially slowing down Natomas development, according to Mr. Buttz, the regional consultant.

Calculations and projections are only based on Natomas' need to develop and regional's need to expand because of this development. Sacramento's financial impacts differ significantly when "our" city is not having to pay for expansion and upgrades which will be part of the deal for Sacramento's substandard drainage system. Objections to alternatives (such as upgrading and expanding our existing sewer plant, which now operate very well under different management) are based on Natomas' need, and shows bias towards Sacramento/Natomas development.

Individuals will be paying much more for sewer usage. Lack of control in improving our own city is one of the other negative factors in this agreement. When there is an earthquake, as projected for this area, odds are that the pipeline will break and leave the entire region without sewers for awhile, rather than a localized and smaller problem.

West Sacramento City Council's evaluation of this process needs a close look. Protecting the existing citizens and not the Natomas developers is the biggest determining factor for this project. Our large number of retired citizens will be heavily impacted by a much larger sewer bill. Our study of two years ago said that we will be good for over ten more years without doing anything. Maybe by that time, Regional Sewer Treatment Facilities will know all the costs and have less bias when dealing with this city. If the decision to go through West Sacramento is made, it will save them two years and over $60,000,000 even if they pay for it. So we had better get something big, up front, or we can be sure that our citizens and city's development has been flushed down the drainage pipe of politics.

AMENDED NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF FREDERICK RAYMOND FREITAS, SR., a/k/a FREDERICK R. FREITAS a/k/a FREDERICK FREITAS CASE NUMBER PB99-205

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate or both, of FREDERICK RAYMOND FREITAS, SR. a/k/a FREDERICK R. FREITAS a/k/a FREDERICK FREITAS:

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by FREDERICK FREITAS, JR. in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that FREDERICK FREITAS, JR. be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests that the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on November 16, 1999, at 8:30 a.m. in Dept. 2 at 725 Court Street, Woodland, CA 95695.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims shall not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

cost the 49ers $2 million in their salary cap next season. Two million dollars will help pay for another QB next year!

The NBA season tips off on Friday and Saturday night with the Kings and Timberwolves playing back-to-back games in Tokyo, Japan. The Kings games will be televised Friday night nationally on TNT (7:30 p.m.) and on channel 31 Saturday (7:00 p.m.). The Kings will return home on Sunday or will it be Monday after their 12- hour flight and a 17-hour time difference to begin to prepare for the home opener against Utah on Friday, November 12.

My weekly NFL picks improved to 8 wins, 9 losses and 1 tie. The Bills (-3) won but tied against the spread but I won with the Jaguars and on Monday night the Seahawks took care of the Packers. This week I like the Jets (-7) over the Cardinals and the 49ers (-2 ½) will beat the Steelers. On Monday night take the Vikings (NL) over the Cowboys.

See ya next week!!

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF CARL WILLIAM JOHNSON, aka CARL W. JOHNSON
CASE NUMBER PB99-220

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of CARL WILLIAM JOHNSON, aka CARL W. JOHNSON, C.W. JOHNSON:

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Charles Elven Johnson in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Charles Elven Johnson be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on 12-3-99 at 8:30 a.m. in Dept. 2, 725 Court St., Woodland, CA 95695.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

If this were a ranking for Olympic Hockey, we would be outraged.

It's time we became just as concerned with how well we compete in the classroom. The fact is, America's schools haven't kept pace with the rest of the world. Our standards are not high enough. Our teachers are undervalued. Our communities need to be more involved. But it's not too late to turn things around. In some places, it's already happening. Find out how together we can bring about the kind of improvement we desperately need. For a free booklet outlining how we can keep the promise of real education for all of America's children, call 1-800-96-PROMISE.

What's new at the library:

From Elise McCallan
Yolo Co. Library
Arthur F. Turner Branch
1212 Merkley Ave.
West Sacramento

The library has received the following new books:

"Chronicle of the Russian Tsars: The Reign-by-Reign Record of the Rulers of Imperial Russia," by David Warnes.

"Ants at Work: How an Insect Society is Organized," by Deborah Gordon.

"Ireland from $50 a Day: The Ultimate Guide to Comfortable Low-Cost Travel," by Mark Meagher.

"A People's History of the Supreme Court:: The Men and Women Whose Cases and Decisions have Shaped Our Constitution," by Peter Irons.

"How to be a Perfect Stranger, Vol. 2: A Guide to Etiquette in Other People's Religious Ceremonies," edited by Stuart M. Matlins and Arthur J. Magida.

"The Unofficial Guide to Disneyland 2000," by Bob Sehlinger.

The semi-annual transfer of large print books has been completed. The Arthur F. Turner Library routed over 40 titles to other Yolo Co. libraries and has, in turn, received the same amount of new titles to freshen the selection on the shelves.

Honored students

A number of West Sacramento college students are among the 120,000 students mentioned in the latest edition of The National Dean's List, published by Educational Communications.

Students must be in the upper 10 percent of their class, or on the school's dean's list or must have received a comparable honor.

The list includes West Sacramentans Der Cheng, Fouzia Fazel, Jesus E. Gutierrez, Maury A. Lam, Terri L. SIms and Teri A. Whittington of Sacramento City College; and Mickey L. Lawrence and Jennifer Palamidessi, who attend American River College.
